CALL FOR PAPERS AND WORKSHOPS

AATSP-ON ANNUAL CONFERENCE: HYBRID EDUCATION

University of Waterloo

Friday, November 2 and Saturday, November 3, 2018

The Ontario Chapter of the AATSP (AATSP-ON) invites you to participate in its annual conference, hosted this year by the Department of Spanish and Latin American Studies at the University of Waterloo, on Friday, November 2 and Saturday November 3, 2018. This year's program will be structured primarily but not exclusively around the theme of hybrid education and other non-traditional forms of teaching. New communication technologies have dramatically changed the connections that can be formed between individuals and groups. The bridges created by social media, as well as access to new forms of participation in digital culture, have generated perceptible changes in many aspects of our lives; and even in the classroom, whether we think of the tools used or in the format of the classroom itself. In addition to dedicating a session to these topics, thematic sessions on Research and Criticism, and Linguistics and Didactics of ELE and PLE, will also feature on the program.

Professors, researchers, teachers, graduate students and the general public are welcome to present papers or workshops in English, French, Portuguese or Spanish. Presentations (20 minutes; 7/8 pages, Times 12, double-spaced) and workshops (30 minutes) will focus on the topics outlined below.

Stream 1 – Hybrid education and other non-traditional forms of teaching

- Online teaching
- New technologies in teaching LE and impacts of on-line teaching
- New evaluation and certification models
